

MRS. JOSEPHINE B. WORTH
DIES AT FAYETTEVILLE*Special to The Observer

Fayetteville, Nov. 9—Mrs. Josephine Bryan Worth, widow of John M. Worth, and one of the most highly esteemed women of this city, died at the Confederate home here yesterday afternoon, in her 69th year of her age. Mrs. Worth had been ill for the greater part of a year. She was one of the oldest members of the J. E. B. Stuart chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and always a devoted daughter of the south. The office of historian of the local chapter was held by her for many years. Both her father, with a Mississippi regiment, and her husband, with the North Carolina troops, were members of the Confederate forces.

Mrs. Worth was the daughter of Josiah and Sarah Hodges Bryan, of Fayetteville. She is survived by a son, John W. Worth, well known musician, and organist and choirmaster of the Church of the Advocate, New York city; and a granddaughter, Josephine Martin, of Fayetteville. She was a woman of strong character, exceptional culture, and gracious personality. She was a gifted musician and possessed considerable ability as a writer. Many friends will be saddened by her death.

The funeral was held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from St. John's Episcopal church, of which she was a devoted member.
